

Quarterly Engineering Review

This document summarizes the performance work completed during the quarter. The checkout service latency was reduced by tuning the connection pool and caching the pricing configuration that was previously re-read on every single request. Throughput improved accordingly across all regions.

The team also migrated the fraud scoring pipeline to an asynchronous queue, which removed a substantial amount of blocking work from the request path. Further optimization is planned for the next quarter, focusing on the receipt generation path and the reporting dashboards.

Confidential - internal distribution only - page 1 of 1